The first annual Literacy and Beyond Conference is indeed not your ordinary literacy conference.

This one-day conference steps into the newest literacies, such as blogging and digital storytelling, and it examines literacy in the content areas – how it looks in the classroom, its purposes, and how it applies to our everyday world.

The conference highlights the latest research and teaching strategies for literacy. Every session addresses reading, writing, speaking, listening, and motivation.

It is organized in grade bands (K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12) and designed for teachers, teacher educators, student teachers, instructional specialists, administrators and parents.

For specific conference, presentation and exhibitor information, please visit the website at www.westga.edu/coelat

Register online at www.westga.edu/conted by 9/1 for $99 Early Bird Fee. Registration includes Writing Workshop, breakfast and lunch.

The conference is sponsored by The Cherokee Rose Writing Project and the University of West Georgia.