History 4454 will examine the major themes and subjects in United States history between 1815 and 1848. As the course title suggests, particular attention will be paid to economic, social, and political developments that took place during the presidential administrations of Andrew Jackson. Jackson's treatment of Native Americans, his struggle against the Bank of the United States, and his handling of such questions as the tariff and internal improvements all had important repercussions on the development of the United States.

This course is designed to achieve several learning outcomes. Students will be responsible for demonstrating an understanding of Jacksonian America through response papers, tests, regular discussions, and book reviews. We will use primary documents, secondary sources, and short films to analyze some of the most important subjects in early nineteenth-century U. S. History. Students will be encouraged to develop their own independent opinions about the central issues of this time period and recognize that historical subjects and issues are often matters of controversy among scholars.

Course Requirements

Midterm- 25%

Final Exam- 25%

Response Papers (in class)- 25%

Book Reviews- 25%

There will be no extra credit offered in this course.

Midterm and Final Exam- The midterm and final exam will cover material from the assigned readings and lectures.

Response Papers- There will be several analytical papers written in class throughout the semester in response to assigned readings.

Book Reviews- Students will turn in typed, critical essays that are 3-5 pages in length on three of the five assigned books (Toqueville, Watson, and Faragher).

Late policy and Makeup Assignments- All assignments must be turned in during class on the day they are due or they will be considered late. One letter grade will be deducted per day for all assignments turned in late.

Makeup assignments will be given only under emergency circumstances. Students taking a makeup assignment must have a written excuse explaining their absence from class.

Attendance- Regular attendance is critical to earning a passing grade in this course. Attendance will be taken on a daily basis and will be considered at the end of the semester in assigning course grades. If a student misses class, it is his/her responsibility to find out what was missed.

Students who need to leave during class must provide an excuse to the instructor before the class begins. Anyone who leaves during class without providing an excuse will be marked absent and will receive a grade of zero on any assignment given that day, even if the student completed the assignment.

Cheating- Cheating in any form (including plagiarism- presenting someone else's words as your own without properly citing them) will not be tolerated. Students caught cheating will receive an F on the assignment and probably an F in the course. (Note: Students should be aware that software and search engines make it relatively easy for instructors to discover text taken from the Internet.)

Assigned texts (Note: Students purchasing the books from the campus bookstore are encouraged to do so early in the semester.)
