

Call for Papers

Society for Theoretical and Philosophical Psychology Division 24 of the American Psychological Association

Second Midwinter Meeting

Join Society members for in-depth discussions on theoretical and philosophical topics in a relaxed atmosphere at a great location.

Date: Friday, February 26 – Sunday, February 28, 2010

Location: Miami, Florida (hotel to be announced)

Paper submission: Papers, symposia or conversation sessions on all topics will be considered. Please send an abstract of 250 words or less to the Program Committee, Midwinter Meeting, at div24midwinter@gmail.com.

Deadline for submission: October 30, 2009

Paper evaluation: The highest priority will be given to sessions that are interactive.

Some suggestions for interactive presentations:

- 1) Present questions to be considered (with perhaps a brief summary of each question's context)
- 2) Distribute your paper in advance to many attendees (which we can help coordinate)
- 3) Present a much shorter paper (half the usual time), with questions to your audience at the end
- 4) Formulate a debate either among panels or individuals
- 5) Present a panel discussion, with interaction among the panelists from the outset

Registration Rates (includes Saturday lunch): Members, $60.00; Non-members, $70.00; Students and Retirees, $40.00.

Registration availability: Registration and hotel information will be available September 1st on the Society website: <http://www.theoreticalpsychology.org>

Questions? Please contact the program chair, Brent Slife: slife@byu.edu
