Faculty Research and Professional Development:

Marketing and Real Estate Departmental faculty have performed excellently in terms of research and professional development this year. They had 20 peer reviewed journal articles accepted for publication last year along with 13 conference papers and one book chapter. This is the highest number of publications in the history of this department. It is especially creditable given that the department currently has just 8 active tenure track faculty members. In addition, departmental faculty were also active as conference attendees, track and session chairs, and reviewers. Dr. Wei was track chair at two professional conferences SMA and AMA, Cheryl Brown was session chair at the International Academy of Business Disciplines Conference, and Susan Hall was session chair at the Delta Pi Epsilon national conference. A total of 19 reviewer positions were held by departmental faculty members. Almost all faculty members attended at least one professional conference.

Dr. Rollins and Dr. Nickell received the RCOB research scholar award for $5,000. Mimi Rickard received the Stone Endowment Grant for $1000 as well as the RCOB faculty service award. Dr. Hazari and Dr. North received the Delta Pi Epsilon national research award.

Dr. Hazari is currently on the Delta Pi Epsilon national dissertation award review committee, Ms. Rickard is currently enrolled in a DBA program at Kennesaw State University and Sandra Thompson was elected to the Federal Education Advisory committee as well as the Georgia US Senate Education Advisory Committee and the Georgia Secondary School System Advisory Committee. Jim Burton also conducted three workshops for Carroll County Chamber of Commerce Leadership Academy and attended a workshop on uniform standards of appraisal practice. He also renewed his Georgia licenses for Real Estate Broker and Certified General Appraiser, as well as Alabama License for Certified General Appraiser. Cheryl Brown attended three workshops on "Teaching Tools in the Changing Classroom", "The New (and Old) Ways Students Cheat", and “using Wimba for Office Hours”. Dr. Hazari participated in a workshop sponsored by UWG Distance Education, "iApollo Workshop.

Grant/Consulting Activities

Marketing and Real Estate faculty conducted several consulting projects and obtained numerous grants during the past year. These included:

He also obtained the Alamode Appraisal Software Upgrade – user network configuration and Silver Membership: Retail Value of $349.

Personal Financial Literacy, in the design, construction, and maintenance of their nonprofit web site.

- Mimi Rickard received the Stone Endowment Grant for $1000.

Evidence of Excellence in Teaching and Special Class Projects

Marketing and Real Estate faculty achieved extraordinary success in teaching as measured by student evaluations, faculty development activities, teaching awards and pedagogical research. All faculty members had means of above 4.4 on the student teaching evaluations. A majority had medians of 5.0.
Cheryl Brown, Sunil Hazari and Minna Rollins all received teaching awards in 2010.

In addition several special class projects and innovative teaching techniques were implemented:

- Susan Hall in her ABED 6100 had students compete in an active and innovative game called, Barracuda Cove Investment Game, where students work on business plans and presentations in a competitive atmosphere. She also published an article based on this in the proceedings of the Association for Business Communications Conference.
- Susan Hall in her ABED 3100 class had students engaged in active learning activities throughout the course. These activities included - debates, fishbowl discussions, mock interviews, learning competitions, etc. She was also the RCOB Big Night coordinator.
- Minna Rollins in addition to receiving the teaching award was also was selected as the courselead for International Business course in the WebMBA program.
- David Nickell in his MKTG 3808 class had student groups work with small businesses on actual business problems. He also incorporated YouTube videos into his lectures. He supervised five internships during the year.
- Cheryl Brown in addition to receiving the teaching award also helped develop a university wide online teaching evaluation instrument. In her MKTG 3808 class students were required to research a new product targeted toward college students using exploratory research, (e.g. interviews and focus groups) and to determine specific attributes of the new product opportunity (via descriptive research, designing survey research). Students then utilized SPSS for data analysis. In her MKTG 3803 class she had students watch an in depth documentary on Wal-Mart, including interviews with its top executives and visits to U.S. and international stores, and then to discuss and analyze this.
- Sunil Hazari in addition to receiving the teaching award, updated all his graduate business communication courses using Web 2.0 activities such as Wikis, Blogs, Podcasts, video etc.
- Mimi Rickard in her MKTG 3803 course used active learning tools like Marketing Jeopardy and small group discussions throughout class. She also had class activities exploring aspects of research, segmenting the market, looking at marketing through products and their changes over the years, and using a wrist watch to develop pricing. In her advertising class students were required to watch the movie What Women Want and to answer specific questions about the advertising environment portrayed in the movie. They are then required to develop an ad of any kind, billboard, radio, television or print about a product portrayed in the movie. In her Retail Management class students constructed a mission statement and worked on a case where they competed against Wal-Mart. Each student was required to complete a six month retailing budget. They were also responsible for an individual project that involved developing the retailing mix for a retail outlet of their choice. They put together a floor plan and a complete promotional mix. In her consumer behavior class students were required to complete various assignments on decision making, consumer’s needs, and value and lifestyle systems.
• Jack Wei in his graduate Marketing Strategy class helped students improve their presentation skills by creating a oral presentation tip sheet based on the one used by the ABED faculty in the undergraduate business communications course.
• Jim Burton used mid-term feedback instruments to enhance teaching skills in all his courses.

International Programs
The Marketing and Real Estate department continues to implement two very successful study abroad programs to China and London. This year we had a total of 22 students enrolled in these programs and all students received STARS scholarships of $500 each. We have continued to develop these programs and students have expressed a high level of satisfaction with them. Most of the recruitment for these programs is through student recommendations.

We are also working on a collaboration agreement with a university in China (SIFT), and two of our faculty members also visited ESEM in France where the RCOB has a collaboration agreement.

Staff Professional Development Activities:
Karen Larsen (Staff Assistant) was involved in the following staff development activities during 2010-11: Policy and New forms training 4-20-2010; ADP Training 4-21-2010; P-Card Training 4-21-2010; Ethics Course Compliance Policy Training 4-21-2010; Certificate of Training Completion Right to Know 4-21-2010; Record Retention training 4-23-2010; Red Dot 10.0 Training 4-27-2010; New Travel Guidelines meeting 2-14-2011; Study Abroad Training Meetings for China and London, January 2011, March and April 2011.

Karen Larsen also received the RCOB service award in 2010.

Exit Interview Results:
Forty-two graduating (or soon to be graduating seniors) filled out a departmental evaluation in the MKTG 4870 class offered in Fall 2011. Ten students were also interviewed by the chair. A brief summary of the responses follows:
• A majority of the students expressed a high level of satisfaction with the Marketing program as well as the Business School at UWG. A majority also felt that their degree would help them attain their career objectives, that their degree prepared them for their job as well as similar degrees from other institutions, and that they would recommend their degree program to others. The most common strengths listed by students were the quality of teaching, the faculty, the facilities, and the curriculum.
• The most frequently mentioned area for improvement was the need for more availability/seats in upper division core business courses as well as more help with internships and job placement activities.
• About 81% said that they planned to attend graduate school and the most frequently mentioned graduate school of interest was business (MBA).
