

Sociology:

Bureau of Labor Statistics:

- Sociologists specialize in a wide range of social topics. Employment of sociologists is expected to grow 18 percent from 2010 to 2020.
- Employment gains will be driven by a growing interest in using sociological research to further understand society and human social interactions. Specifically, social, political, and business organizations will need sociologists to research, evaluate, and address many different social issues, programs, and problems (Bureau of Labor Statistics 2012).
- In addition, sociologists will be needed to apply sociological principles and research to other disciplines. For example, sociologists may collaborate with researchers in other fields to study how social structures or groups influence policy decisions about health, education, politics, business, or economics (Bureau of Labor Statistics 2012).
- Most sociology positions require a master's degree or Ph.D.

Georgia Department of Labor:

- Child, Family, and School Social Workers are projected to grow 20.8% in Georgia from 2008 to 2018.
- Medical and Public Health Social Workers are expected to grow 21.9% in Georgia from 2008 to 2018.
- Human Resources Assistants are projected to grow 12.2% in Georgia from 2008 to 2018.
- Area, Ethnic, and Cultural Studies and Sociology postsecondary teachers as Georgia's top 100 fastest growing jobs.

Career One Stop (link off the US Department of Labor):

- Child, family, and school social workers jobs are expected to grow 21% in the state of Georgia and 20% nationally by 2020.
- Sociologist jobs are expected to grow 18% by 2020 nationally.

Other Sources:

- The Riley Guide, a job research link located on the Georgia Department of Labor website, states a 19% growth in Family Social Workers, a 17% growth in Human Resources Specialists, 18% growth in Public and Private Social Workers and a 34% growth of Human Services Assistants jobs between the years 2006-2016.
- According to 2006 study done by the American Sociological Association, just 18 months after graduation, 80 percent were employed of those students surveyed.

According to the University of Georgia Career Services, possible employment settings are:

American Red Cross	GA Department of Social Services
Athens Area Habitat for Humanity	Google
Athens Regional Library System	Habitat for Humanity, Intl
Athens Regional Medical Center	Laurel Woods Mental Health
Athens Technical College	Macon Water Authority
Atlanta Public Schools	State Farm Insurance
Botanical Gardens	SunTrust Bank
GA Department of Community Affairs	Teach for America
GA Department of Family and Children	U.S. Environmental Protection Agency US Census Bureau

The University of Georgia Career Services lists the following as possible job titles:

Account Strategist	Medicaid Eligibility Specialist
Advertising Assistant	Office Manager
Alumni Affairs Coordinator	Paralegal
Assistant Research Scientist	Prevention Educator
Claims Representative	Probation Officer
Client Care Representative	Program Coordinator
Corporate Communications Assistant	Public Relations Specialist
Counselor	Research Coordinator
Customer Service Processor	Residential Counselor
Data Manager, Analyst	Sales Representative
Editor	School and Youth Campaign
Family Independence Case Manger	Recruiter
Health & Safety Administrator	Social Worker
Human Resources Assistant	Teacher
Humane Society Director	Travel Manager
Lead Recruiter	Web Designer
Litigation Investigator
Logistics Coordinator
Marketing Coordinator	