U.S. Employer’s Guide to Hiring

UWG

International Students
The purpose of this guide is to inform U.S. employers of:

- International students’ F-1 and J-1 work authorization options
- The ease of procedures and costs involved when hiring University of West Georgia international students for internships or full-time opportunities after graduation

Legal Notice:
This guide is not intended to and does not serve as legal advice; it is for informational purposes only. UWG International Admissions and Programs Office serves UWG international students directly and does not give immigration advice or respond to questions from employers. Content is subject to change. Employers are advised to consult an experienced U.S. immigration attorney with any additional questions.

UWG international students represent 74 countries and pursue a diverse array of degrees and career goals. They possess qualities that top employers seek:

- Global perspectives with diverse viewpoints and experiences
- Multilingual and cross-cultural communication skills that are vital for companies to compete in a global economy
- Effective leadership and teamwork skills along with the ability to adapt to changes and persevere

UWG’s International Student Admissions & Programs office provides more information about our students’ demographics and education pursuits.

The majority of UWG international students are in F-1 or J-1 immigration status that includes off-campus work authorization benefits during and after the academic program.

The remainder of this guide provides an overview of these work authorization options along with long-term employment visa options and resources. We hope the information will help to clarify and streamline the hiring process of international students.

Note: Employers should note that a Social Security Number alone is not sufficient proof of work authorization for international students. It is critical that employers confirm an international student’s work authorization prior to the employment start date to prevent any liability for the student and the employer in the future.
