Preface

Dear Reader,

The Academic Affairs division of the University of West Georgia prides itself on having faculty who are actively engaged in teaching, scholarly research and creative activities, and service to the community. This document does not begin to capture every activity and accomplishment of the University faculty, but even this abbreviated list is truly impressive. Here you will find listed faculty awards, honors, performances, creative exhibitions, scholarly presentations, grants received, services rendered, and offices held, along with books, articles, and other publications from some of the most prestigious publishing houses around the globe.

UWG faculty are dedicated to the transformational power of learning which includes teaching, research, and professional growth and development. Faculty from across campus are committed to providing students with high impact educational experiences that truly deepen learning and engagement. These include undergraduate research opportunities, capstone seminars and projects, internships in cooperation with area businesses and civic agencies, First Year Seminars, and opportunities for Study Away / Study Abroad in diverse settings around the globe. The work that faculty contribute in the areas of scholarship and community service directly connect to their engagement as teachers with students both within and outside of the classroom; indeed, they are at the very heart of what teaching is all about.

In this report, you will also see throughout a notation of accomplishments that are in some way connected to community engagement. This notation appears as follows: [CEA]. West Georgia has always been an institution with ties to our community, both immediate and distant, and has always been engaged actively in serving those communities as well; in fact, just this past spring, West Georgia received its national classification as a community engaged institution from the Carnegie Foundation, becoming only one of 359 institutions nationwide to earn such a distinction. While a majority of the CEA notations are connected to accomplishments listed under areas of service, this notation also appears under scholarship, performances, exhibitions, and grants, among others. The faculty of West Georgia are guided by a professional and personal commitment to serve the community, whether it is simply volunteering or participating in public events or contributing to a community need through scholarship, teaching, and professional service. This longstanding partnership with our community is something faculty do not always publicize, but it is of exceptional importance for all of us to be part of the broader community that includes the University.

Thank you for taking the time to review this report on faculty accomplishments at UWG. I hope you find it informative and inspirational.

Sincerely,

David Jenks, Ph.D.
Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

¹ A notation of [CEA] after a submission designates that the faculty member reported their work as a Community Engaged Activity. A CEA involves a mutually beneficial exchange of knowledge and resources with the larger community (local, regional/state, national, and/or global) and is a self-report measure.

² A notation of Published/Presented/Created with a student means that the faculty member reported their activity as being completed in conjunction with one or more students and is a self-report measure.

¹ A notation of [CEA] after a submission designates that the faculty member reported their work as a Community Engaged Activity. A CEA involves a mutually beneficial exchange of knowledge and resources with the larger community (local, regional/state, national, and/or global) and is a self-report measure.

² A notation of Published/Presented/Created with a student means that the faculty member reported their activity as being completed in conjunction with one or more students and is a self-report measure.

Preface

Dear Reader,

The Academic Affairs division of the University of West Georgia prides itself on having faculty who are actively engaged in teaching, scholarly research and creative activities, and service to the community. This document does not begin to capture every activity and accomplishment of the University faculty, but even this abbreviated list is truly impressive. Here you will find listed faculty awards, honors, performances, creative exhibitions, scholarly presentations, grants received, services rendered, and offices held, along with books, articles, and other publications from some of the most prestigious publishing houses around the globe.

UWG faculty are dedicated to the transformational power of learning which includes teaching, research, and professional growth and development. Faculty from across campus are committed to providing students with high impact educational experiences that truly deepen learning and engagement. These include undergraduate research opportunities, capstone seminars and projects, internships in cooperation with area businesses and civic agencies, First Year Seminars, and opportunities for Study Away / Study Abroad in diverse settings around the globe. The work that faculty contribute in the areas of scholarship and community service directly connect to their engagement as teachers with students both within and outside of the classroom; indeed, they are at the very heart of what teaching is all about.

In this report, you will also see throughout a notation of accomplishments that are in some way connected to community engagement. This notation appears as follows: [CEA]. West Georgia has always been an institution with ties to our community, both immediate and distant, and has always been engaged actively in serving those communities as well; in fact, just this past spring, West Georgia received its national classification as a community engaged institution from the Carnegie Foundation, becoming only one of 359 institutions nationwide to earn such a distinction. While a majority of the CEA notations are connected to accomplishments listed under areas of service, this notation also appears under scholarship, performances, exhibitions, and grants, among others. The faculty of West Georgia are guided by a professional and personal commitment to serve the community, whether it is simply volunteering or participating in public events or contributing to a community need through scholarship, teaching, and professional service. This longstanding partnership with our community is something faculty do not always publicize, but it is of exceptional importance for all of us to be part of the broader community that includes the University.

Thank you for taking the time to review this report on faculty accomplishments at UWG. I hope you find it informative and inspirational.

Sincerely,

David Jenks, Ph.D.
Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

¹ A notation of [CEA] after a submission designates that the faculty member reported their work as a Community Engaged Activity. A CEA involves a mutually beneficial exchange of knowledge and resources with the larger community (local, regional/state, national, and/or global) and is a self-report measure.

² A notation of Published/Presented/Created with a student means that the faculty member reported their activity as being completed in conjunction with one or more students and is a self-report measure.
