Preface

Dear Reader,

The Academic Affairs division of the University of West Georgia prides itself on having a very active faculty. While maintaining a focus on teaching, faculty members are also actively engaged in their disciplines through scholarly activity and service. This document does not list every single accomplishment of the West Georgia faculty, but even in its somewhat abbreviated mode, the list is impressive. Here you will find listed faculty awards, honors, performances, grants received, services rendered, offices held, art exhibitions, and lists of books and articles by some of the most prestigious publishing houses in the country and indeed the English-speaking world. We have presented for you a selection of scholarly presentations and creative productions that is perhaps still too long for this venue.

Suffice it to say, our faculty are dedicated to their craft and through that craft to their students and to providing them not only an education informed by someone in the contemporary dialogue with their academic disciplines, but also often the case through the noble task of including their students in the production of knowledge. When students move from being the consumers of knowledge to the fellow producers of knowledge, then we know that we have done our job as educators, and, furthermore, accomplishing that is only possible if the teaching faculty are indeed fully engaged.

You will also note something a bit new in this document of faculty production and that is notation of an accomplishment that is in some way connected to community engagement. This notation appears in that text as follows: [CEA]. West Georgia has always been an institution with ties to our community, both immediate and distant, and has always been engaged in a number of ways; therefore, while a majority of the CEA notations are connected to accomplishments listed under some form of service, there are numerous other notations under scholarship, performances, exhibitions, and grants, to name the most prevalent. The faculty of West Georgia feel an obligation to serve the community from simply lending a hand at public events to making some part of a community need an object of scholarly or artistic inquiry. This longstanding partnership with our community is something we don’t necessarily publicize very much but it is of exceptional importance for all of us in the larger community that includes the University.

Sincerely,

Micheal Crafton

Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs
College of Arts and Humanities
