ABOUT THE MAJOR

The B.S. in Anthropology combines social science and natural sciences, ideal preparation for a multitude of applied and academic careers. Our students graduate with a well-rounded knowledge of the human experience.

We offer fully-developed coursework in four subdisciplines:

- Archaeological Anthropology: Excavate and analyze the archaeological record.
- Biological Anthropology: Examine biological evolution and diversity.
- Cultural Anthropology: Interface with cultures from the past and present.
- Linguistic Anthropology: Investigate how language enables the creation of society and culture.
