Please indicate telework days: M T W TH F S SUN

Please indicate telework hours: _____

Note: Telework agreements shall be limited to periods of no more than 12 months and after review, may be extended annually in 12-month increments.

Factors to consider when determining if telework is appropriate:

- Can the essential functions of the job be performed via telework?
- Does the employee’s job require face-to-face contact with internal or external customers (front-line support)?
- Is the position student facing or student centric?
- Whether the job requires hands-on contact with on-site resources?
- Will telework permit the achievement of organizational goals?

Employees and units entering into a Telework Agreement must agree to adhere to the guidelines and policies below.

Pay and Attendance: All pay, leave, and travel entitlement will be based on the employee’s approved remote work location and employee’s time and attendance will be recorded as performing official duties at the approved remote work location.

Leave: Employees must obtain supervisory approval before taking leave in accordance with University policy and the established campus unit and office procedures.

Overtime: If the employee works overtime that has been scheduled and approved in advance, the employee will be compensated in accordance with applicable law and rules. Failure to obtain advance approval for overtime may subject the employee to disciplinary action. By signing this agreement, the employee acknowledges that failure to obtain proper approval for overtime may result in the termination of the telework arrangement and/or other appropriate action.

Personal Activities: The employee agrees that any time spent on personal responsibilities while teleworking will not conflict with the hours spent preparing work assignments. The employee acknowledges that their supervisor will monitor work productivity standards and may terminate this agreement if such standards are not maintained.

Standards of Conduct: The employee acknowledges that the employee is still subject to the University’s standards of conduct and other established state laws, department policies, procedures and acceptable practices and understands that failure to do so may subject the employee to disciplinary action.

State Owned Equipment: In order to effectively perform their assigned tasks, employees may use University equipment at the telework location with the approval of their supervisor. The equipment must be protected against damage and unauthorized use and will only be serviced and maintained by the University. The employee must not use University equipment for personal purposes.

- Equipment Loan Agreement Form: This form must be completed and approved prior to removal of state property from the regular work site. Failure to complete the Equipment Loan Agreement Form will result in the personal liability of the employee in the event the property is damaged, lost or stolen.

Equipment provided by the employee will be at no cost to the University, and will be maintained by the employee.

System Use & Security: The employee agrees to abide by the University's Acceptable Use Policy while teleworking. This policy addresses employee use of computers and computer related resources which is consistent with the academic, research and service mission of the University.

Liability: The University will not be liable for damages to the employee's property or for visitor or family injuries at the work site resulting from participation in the telework arrangement.

Reimbursement: The University will not be responsible for operating costs, home maintenance, or any other incidental cost (e.g. utilities) associated with the use of the employee's remote work location. This does not relinquish any entitlement to reimbursement for authorized expenses incurred while conducting business for the State, as provided by statute and implementing regulations.

Telework Site Safety and Workers Compensation: Under the terms of this agreement, the employee is responsible for setting up an appropriate work environment within their remote location. The University will not be responsible for any cost associated with the setup of a remote office. Upon the employee's request, the University will consult with the employee on any modifications or requirements to operate University-owned equipment at their remote office. By signing this agreement, the employee is indicating they have met the reasonable standards to include health and safety requirements and will maintain it in the condition for the duration of the telework period.

The employee may be covered by workers' compensation for job-related injuries that occur in the course and scope of employment while teleworking. If there are any injuries while working, the workers' compensation coverage will be limited to occurrences in the designated work space (or during work-related travel). Also, if such an injury were to occur, it will be investigated in accordance with the standard workers' compensation procedures promulgated by the Georgia Department of Administrative Services (DOAS). The employee is responsible for reporting work-related injuries to the employee's supervisor/manager within 24 hours in compliance with University policy. The employee understands that verified negligence or failure in this regard may subject the employee to disciplinary action and/or revocation of telework privileges.

Working Location: As an employee approved for telework, the employee agrees to maintain an office or adequate work space at the telework site. This office location will be considered the employee's remote work location. Unless the employee's work location is specified in their official campus job description as being regularly assigned to a remote location/site, the employee will not be reimbursed for mileage associated with traveling to the main campus.

System Access the Employee Will Need: Employee assures access to all systems and applications routinely used in the office at the employee's teleworking location.

Work Assignment: The employee will receive their work assignments by corresponding with their immediate supervisor on a regular basis. The employee will complete all assigned work according to work procedures mutually agreed upon by the employee and the supervisor according to guidelines and standards stated in the employee's performance plan. If there are any questions or concerns about assignments, the employee is expected to inform their immediate supervisor of them at the time of receipt. Once assignments have been completed, the employee may return them to their immediate supervisor via the method specified by the supervisor.

Evaluation: The evaluation of the employee's job performance will be based on norms or other criteria consistent with these guidelines which may include status meetings and reports, call logs, project tracking sheets, etc. For those assignments without precedence or without standards, regular and required progress reporting by the employee will be used by the supervisor to rate job performance and established standards. The employee's most recent performance appraisal must indicate satisfactory performance in order to receive approval for participation or maintain participation in the telework arrangement.

Records: Work performed in accordance with this agreement is considered official State business and the employee will apply approved safeguards to protect State/University records from unauthorized disclosure or damage and will comply with the public record requirements. All records, papers, and correspondence must be safeguarded for return to the official location. Release or destruction of any records should be done at the official location.

Curtailement of Agreement: The employee's supervisor or unit head may terminate participation in this agreement at any time. Management also reserves the right to remove the employee from the program at any time. Upon reasonable notice of not less than ten (10) business days, the employee will be expected to report for work at the primary departmental office location or other location as assigned by the supervisor.
