A PERSONAL NOTE REGARDING ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE AND WHAT SCHOLARSHIP MEANS

Dear Students,

I, too, was once a freshman in college. I, too, took English Composition. I, too, struggled with grammar, punctuation, formatting, analysis, introductions, conclusions, and independent critical thought. It was often difficult, frustrating, confusing, disappointing, and challenging. But, trust me, the rewards come, and when they do, they are lifelong, rewarding, and essential.

Many of your instructors are brilliant, disciplined, and accomplished. Some of them have always been that way. They may have been straight A students all their lives. It’s possible that their expectations of you as students are based on unrealistic experiences of success and a natural affinity for language and its shifting codes. That is not the case in my classroom. I struggled; I failed; I procrastinated; I avoided. In time, I learned some personal coping skills and managed to graduate with honors in my discipline. At the time, that was visual arts.

Most of my accomplishments in writing came later in life, but they include significant publications and even the occasional check in the mailbox. Editors appreciate my ability to generate ideas and develop themes without asking them a question they tire of hearing: “What exactly is it that you want from me?” Your teachers may also be tired of hearing this question. While we all want to hear your thoughts and help you shape your ideas, our ultimate challenge is to teach you to generate, pursue, and refine those ideas through education and scholarship. To that end, I’m going to share a secret with you.

I’m going to tell you the answer – right here on the first day of class in this syllabus – to the question already forming on your lips: “What do you really want from me?” I want independent thought and critical thinking. I want you to learn how to do the work without having to ask someone else how to think or how to make determinations. I want you to read, hear, and see the world and have the skill and resources to discern truth from fiction, fact from opinion, and a bias from objectivity. I want you to feel comfortable recognizing what you do not know, and I want you to know how to find the answers without asking someone who may tell you what they think without allowing you the opportunity to find the private truths so essential to us all. That is what I want from you and for you.

I expect you to become a scholar, and that is why it is up to you to meet deadlines, complete assignments, and accept the consequences when you do not comply with course policies. Students do not receive passing grades for enrollment and attendance. Essay grades are not assigned on the basis of effort but on academic performance. Students earn grades; they do not pay for them with tuition. Tuition pays for the opportunity to enter the classroom and participate in a learning environment. Grades assess achievement and performance. Scholarships and GPAs are not insured by attendance and meeting deadlines. Scholarship and maintaining scholarships requires genuine intellectual and academic investment and achievement. Students are expected to behave and perform as scholars in search of their own academic and educational rewards. It is not my practice or intention to encourage intellectual sloth or indifference to demands of scholarly growth.

This classroom rewards engaged, curious, and motivated students. I’m not afraid to fail poorly developed assignments, because I have failed and been failed, and I know your prospects are excellent for growth and recovery.

Here’s to a fabulous semester. This class requires work, but we have fun too. I look forward to knowing you and learning with you.

Sincerely,

Melissa Dickson Jackson

Common Language for Course Syllabi: Students should review the Common Language each semester. These statements are updated as federal, state, university, and accreditation standards change. http://www.westga.edu/assetsDept/vpaa/Common_Language_for_Course_Syllabi.pdf It contains important information about your rights and responsibilities in this course. Including the Americans with Disabilities Act, the UWG Email Policy, the Credit Hour Policy, and the Honor Code.

Final grades: posted to BanWeb; no grades will be given via telephone or e-mail

Catalog Description: The course serves as a continuation of English 1101 and as an introduction to more sophisticated study of argument and textual analysis, focusing on the composition of increasingly complex analytical essays about written and visual texts. Students must demonstrate advanced competency in critical analysis and interpretation of texts.

General Learning Outcomes: To develop reading, understanding, and interpreting of a broad range of written and visual texts from a variety of genres, including but not limited to nonfiction, fiction, poetry, drama, and film. To extend the skills of analytical writing, critical thinking, and argumentative interpretation of meaning established in English 1101. To enhance the understanding of literary principles and the use of basic terms important to critical writing and reading. To construct essays using textual evidence from both primary and secondary sources.

Critical Reading and Analysis: Develop an understanding of genre and the role of genre in textual analysis. Understand connections between primary and secondary sources and how those connections affect and generate intertextuality.

Writing Process and Rhetorical Objectives: Demonstrate the ability to connect primary and secondary sources in a logical, persuasive, and correct way. Expand the length and complexity in the writing and thinking process.

MINIMAL COMPETENCY REQUIREMENTS

Essay Level: Continuation of the learning objectives of ENGL 1101, that is, creation of clear theses, effective introductions and conclusions, and logical, persuasive patterns of essay organization. Additional requirements include the ability to develop a logical argument advancing a particular explication or interpretation of a literary text, focusing on the ways in which the incorporation of secondary materials enhances argument.

Paragraph Level: Continuation of the paragraph development skills required in ENGL 1101. Additionally be able to manage quotations from primary and secondary texts as a means for developing paragraphs, neither letting the quotations dominate the paragraphs inappropriately nor under-explaining the quotations once used.

Sentence Level: Continuation of ENGL 1101, consistent evidence of sentence variety and control of syntax to achieve clarity. Consistent use of apt and varied diction. Additionally be able to use quotations in sentences while maintaining grammatical correctness and competent punctuation. Demonstrate a command of mechanics, grammar, and usage conventions of Standard Edited English as required in ENGL 1101.

Documentation Style: MLA style for documenting sources. (Template Available online and in Microsoft Word)

Technological Objective: Demonstrate the ability to use word processing and to find and evaluate electronic resources. Demonstrate an ability to access and use internet resources required by the instructor.

ASSESSMENT AND ASSIGNMENTS: You will write four essays. The first is a diagnostic essay used to evaluate your strengths and weaknesses. This assignment is required and must be completed before proceeding with other assignments. You may be asked to revise this assignment in order to develop your competency before proceeding.

5000 words of graded writing required by the department
1 Diagnostic Essay and 3 out-of-class Formal Essays with one or more opportunities for revision
At least two essays must incorporate secondary research
IMPORTANT NOTES:

● This schedule is subject to change in order to accommodate the progress of the class. Changes will be discussed in class as needed. You are responsible for checking the syllabus on a regular basis.

● Because we will read selections from our texts during class discussions, you should bring your texts to class; failure to do so will affect your grade.

● Any use of cell phones or personal electronics at any time during class is discouraged and directly affects your grade. I do not want to see your cell phone. I will ask you to leave and mark you absent if you are unable to manage this requirement. If you have a personal issue that demands access to your phone, discuss it with me privately, and we will make a special arrangement for you.

● All students are expected to schedule an individual meeting with the instructor during the instructor’s Writing Center or office hours. Failure to do so will affect your grade.

● All students are expected to participate in class discussions, Writer’s Help Assignments, and Draft Workshops. Failure to do so will affect your grade.

● Attendance and Classroom Behavior directly affect your grade.

● Students will be required to take notes in the composition notebook. Notebooks will be graded.

● Students who plagiarize in any way including excessive collaboration, recycled papers, or failure to cite material or intellectual property will receive a 0 on the assignment in question and may also fail the class. Plagiarism: Using the words and/or ideas of another without properly giving credit to the source(s). It should be noted that unintentional plagiarism is plagiarism nonetheless. In addition to obvious methods of plagiarism such as intentionally representing someone else's words as one's own, other acts such as "making up" sources, turning in work done in fulfillment of another course, or receiving excessive assistance are all forms of academic dishonesty, and subject to the penalties for plagiarism. http://www.westga.edu/writing/index_153.php

● Hard copies of final essays should be turned in with a copy of your outline, your original draft, and the essay rubric in a pocket folder labeled with your name, course section, class day, and time

● Reading the assigned material is essential to your success in class.

PLAGIARISM & ACADEMIC DISHONESTY: The Department of English and Philosophy defines plagiarism as taking personal credit for the words and ideas of others as they are presented in electronic, print, and verbal sources. The Department expects that students will accurately credit sources in all assignments. An equally dishonest practice is fabricating sources or facts; this is another form of misrepresenting the truth. In addition, working closely with someone else to the point at which his/her ideas significantly contribute to your paper also constitutes a form of plagiarism known as excessive collaboration.

Regardless of the extent of the plagiarism, students who plagiarize will be given a 0 on the assignment and an automatic F in the course, no exceptions, and may face possible expulsion (Note: This policy extends to cheating on all other assignments as well, including journal entries, quizzes, or other in-class work.). See below for University policies for handling Academic Dishonesty:

Attendance: Attendance directly affects your grade.

All absences count, regardless of your reason for missing class, so there is no need to explain absences or provide doctor's notes. If you are absent when roll is called, you will be noted as absent. Do not be tardy if you want to be counted present. Attending class is essential to your success. Our essay topics will be discussed and developed in class; your progress and participation grades will come from class work.

After 3 absences you will receive 0% on your participation grade; after 4 absences you will lose 5% of your process work grade, 10% after five, and upon 6 absences you will receive 0% on your process work grade. Since you will be required to take the class again if you do not receive a C, it’s in your best interest, financially and personally, to attend all classes and protect your opportunity to complete the class with an A, B, or C.

Withdrawal period ends on October 14. If you have already missed three classes by that time (including late arrivals), you are advised to withdraw with a W instead of risking a WF or a failing grade.

On days when a quiz or writing assignment is completed during class, late arrivals will not be permitted to disrupt the progress of present students.

MAKEUP WORK: If you miss a quiz or daily class assignment, you may ask me or a classmate for the information. However, no grade will be entered in course den for that activity on that day. You should complete the work in your composition notebook and add the daily class notes to your spiral notebook for final assessment. If you miss a mid-term, you may make an office appointment during which you can complete the test.

Disruptive Behavior Policy (FYW policy): Students may be dismissed from any class meeting at which they exhibit behavior that disrupts the learning environment of others. Such behavior includes – but is not limited to – arriving late for class, allowing cell phones to ring, speaking disrespectfully to the instructor and/or to other students, checking email or surfing the web, and using personal audio or visual devices. Each dismissal of this kind will count as an absence and will be applied toward the attendance policy above. (Department Policy)

Classroom Decorum: Respect, compassion and support for the class, the instructor, yourself, and your fellow students is critical. Any behavior in opposition to this expectation results in dismissal from class and be regarded as an absence. Such behaviors include: texting, sleeping, disruptive side-conversations, rude or inappropriate remarks, and general antipathy for the classroom.

All electronic devices (cell phones, ipods, etc.) should be turned off and out of sight during class UNLESS I ask you to assist in looking up an item related to our discussion.

Late Work Policy: We will use Turnitin for delivery of all papers. Papers are due to Turnitin by 10pm on the evening BEFORE the hard copies are due in class. Late work will not be accepted. Make-up opportunities may be assigned on a case by case basis, but the easiest and best way to preserve your grade and protect your efforts is to turn in your work on time.

To access additional class readings, go to my faculty profile and check course materials. If for some reason you cannot access a hyperlink, or run into a problem with one, email me as soon as possible so that I can address the issue. PDFs may have to be downloaded and saved to a file on your device.

Protocol for out-of-class essays: All final essays will be delivered via Turnitin. Hardcopies will be presented in class on the duedate.

Pre-writing: For each of your out-of-class essays, you are required to turn in a pre-writing, each of which will contribute to your final grade. You have the option of submitting pre-writing early for feedback. Please schedule an office visit to submit and discuss your pre-writing.

Rough Drafts: Students who do not have acceptable drafts will be dismissed from class with an absence. For each of your out-of-class essays, you are required to complete a rough draft. Your rough drafts will be graded on the basis of completion, not content. Unless otherwise stated, all rough drafts must be typed; handwritten submissions will not receive credit. Each workshop will vary according to class needs.

Student-Professor Email correspondence (mjackson@westga.edu): I’m happy to hear from you by email. If you need in-depth help with a paper or topic, please make an appointment during my office or Writing Center hours. I do not review papers by e-mail. I’m happy to provide minimal feedback on thesis statements and proposals, but these requests are time consuming and should not be abused. Please do not send email asking about material missed in class. I recommend that you communicate with your classmates, refer to our class blog, or see the syllabus. ALL e-mail correspondence must use your mwestga.edu account.

Departmental Paperless Policy: As of Fall 2006, our English Department has implemented a “paperless” policy in its classrooms. In other words, instructors will no longer be handing out worksheets or Xerox copies of materials for students. It is your responsibility to purchase the ink and print required materials. Please do not complain about this in class. College requires printed materials. You decided to enroll in a college course.

Communicating with Parents, FERPA: Federal law requires students to complete a FERPA if they want their parents to review academic progress or communicate with their professors. Should you have concerns about your progress in the course, or any other issues, schedule a private appointment, and I will help you develop a plan to support your academic success. I’m happy to communicate with your parents if you complete a FERPA.

The Writing Center, TLC 1201
678-839-6513 Writing@westga.edu www.westga.edu/~writing
Hours: Monday - Wednesday: 10am-7pm, Thursday 10am-3pm, Friday 10am-1pm
The WC offers consultation in which tutors question, respond to, offer choices, and encourage revision in student essays. Services Provided: Discuss ideas, read drafts, and work through revisions of essays; we do not proofread Regents’ Test Preparation (both the reading and essay sections) MLA, APA, Chicago/Turabian, and other citation formats. Please make appointments in advance. Review the Writing Center Policies online so you do not lose your privileges there.

Grading: All out-of-class essays will be graded according to the department’s shared grading rubrics for ENGL 1102. We will discuss the grading rubric in class so that you will be familiar with the criteria. All out-of-class essays must be typed and formatted according to MLA style guidelines.

In the second week of the semester, you will complete a diagnostic essay for feedback; this will enable me to let you know if your pattern of error constitutes a deficiency that will need attention outside of the time we spend in class. It will ultimately be your responsibility, if you do have a deficiency and need outside help, to seek that help, either via an appointment with the Writing Center, private study, or an appointment with me during my office hours.

Please note that I do not accept/allow “recycled” papers (i.e. essays that you have written for previous classes).

Your final grade will be the result of the grades you earn, averaged according to the weights specified here (see below for percentages).

Grading scale:

Out-of-Class Essay: A+=98%; A=95%; A-=92%; B+=88%; B=85%; B-=82%; C+=78%; C=75%; C-=72%;
D+=68%; D=65%; D-=62%; F=50%

Your final grade will be determined as follows:

Participation 15% (Lost after 3 absences)

1102 Essay Rubric

To earn a “C” a student must
1. Respond to all of the constraints of the assignment:

   b. Paper should meet the minimum length requirement specified on the assignment sheet.
   c. Paper should adequately respond to one of the assigned topics.
2. Posit a clear thesis/argument:
   a. Thesis must center on a concrete claim.
   b. Essay should be comprised primarily of textual analysis in support of the thesis.
   c. Essay should illustrate an understanding of the text that extends beyond the surface level.
3. Present a well-organized essay:

   b. The majority of body paragraphs should provide supporting evidence and accompanying analysis, with few in need of further elaboration.
   c. Paragraphs should contain topic sentences and/or transitions.
4. Maintain a tone appropriate for the audience:
   a. Essay should not contain colloquialisms or excessively informal language.
   b. Essay should not rest on personal opinion.
5. Be able to construct grammatically sound paragraphs with no pervasive pattern of grammatical errors that would undermine basic sentence-level coherence.

To earn a “B” on essay #3, a student must
1. Adhere to all assignment requirements (MLA style and formatting, length, assigned topic).
2. Anchor essay via concrete thesis statement focusing on a sophisticated analysis of the assigned text(s) and topic(s).
3. Provide sound analysis that follows standard rules of paragraph construction (topic sentences, supporting evidence, explication) and displays adequate paragraph development.
4. Have no distracting pattern of error and no more than two major grammatical errors.
5. Display tangible improvement with respect to errors marked on previous essays/graded writing (meaning the student cannot have a repeated pattern of errors marked on previously graded work).

To earn an “A” on essay #3, a student must
1. Adhere to all assignment requirements, with no major errors in MLA style or formatting.
2. Provide a thesis that is insightful, sophisticated and well-articulated.
3. Remain focused on the topic and thesis, providing sound and compelling analysis throughout the essay.
5. Have very few grammatical errors, none of which interfere with coherence.

1. Failing to adhere to basic assignment requirements (length, flagrant disregard for MLA style and formatting).
2. A lack of substantive analysis (i.e. an essay resting primarily on observation or summary).
3. A pervasive pattern of minor errors that undermines sentence-level coherence.
4. A pattern of repeated errors marked on previously graded work.

An “F” grade results from Failure to adhere to basic assignment requirements.
Or Two or more of the faults listed under “D.”
