Course Description:
This course is an introduction to global history from 1500 to the present. The course examines transnational and global historical processes that shaped the modern world. Empire, mobility and labor will be used as categories to examine diverse phenomena in global history including the nature of the global political order, the expansion and collapse of modern empires and the rise of national states. Through comparative study, the course asks how did the modern world come into existence? What is the nature of the modern state and the global political and economic order? The course will trace the intellectual and cultural history of theories of human development, as well as spatial representations of the global order over five centuries. Subjects covered include: New World exploration and conquest, the Atlantic slave trade, the French Revolutions, the rise and decline of European imperial and economic power, the rise of global mobility restrictions, the First and Second World Wars, the Soviet Union and the Cold War, Decolonization and the emergence of the Global South.

World map from Erzurumlu İbrahim Hakki’s Marifetname, ca.1757

Student Learning Outcomes:
At the conclusion of this course:

- Students will be able to demonstrate the ability to understand the political, social, economic, or cultural dimensions of modern world history.
- Students will be able to differentiate between primary and secondary sources.
- In both written and oral work, students will be able to analyze and interpret primary sources and will be able to formulate historical arguments based upon primary sources.

Evaluation:
Class participation: 10% (participation, attendance, map quizzes)
4 Written Homework Assignments: 20% (5% each)
   Due dates: August 20; September 10; October 1; November 5
Research Exercise: Decolonization and the End of Empire, 1945-1970: 30% (Due Dec. 3)
Midterm exam: 20% (October 10)
Final exam: 20% TBD

Extra Credit: I encourage students to write up a brief analysis of each primary source before class. Students who submit a complete typed dossier of these analyses will be eligible for extra credit – up to one complete letter grade.

Classroom Policies:
Assignments: Students are expected to complete ALL assigned readings before class. Pay attention to the due date of written assignment and exams. You will receive a handout for each writing assignment along with a rubric. Late papers will lose half a letter grade per day late.

Attendance and Participation: Attendance is essential to perform well in the class and is mandatory. Late students will be marked absent. If you are unable to class, please send me an email before class. Excessive absences will significantly affect your final grade.

Academic Honesty: Students are required to abide by the University’s Honor Code. Plagiarism or cheating will result in the automatic failure of the course. The code can be found here: https://www.westga.edu/administration/vpsa/assets/docs/2016-2017-code-of-conduct.pdf

Technology: The use of cell phones, especially text messaging, is strictly prohibited. If you are found to be text messaging during class, you will be asked to leave the classroom for the remainder of the day and marked absent. I prefer that students take notes by hand, if you require the use of a computer please see me.

Student Resources: I encourage all students to meet with me at least once during the semester. If you have any questions about the readings, material covered in lectures or the written assignments, please send me an email or visit me in my office. For assistance with writing, please make use of the University Writing Center (UWC) located in TLC 1201: https://www.westga.edu/academics/coah/writing/. For assistance with developing study skills and time management please visit the Center for Academic Success (CAS) located in UCC 200: https://www.westga.edu/student-services/cas/index.php.
