Office hours: Office hours: Monday 11-1; Tuesday, 10-2; Wednesday 2-5; in the Center for Public History, Lower Level, Ingram Library, and by appointment

Class meetings: Monday, 1-3:30, TLC 3-205

Course Description

This course is designed to introduce graduate students to the theory and practice of public history. While historians have been involved with the public for many years, the practice of public history has become increasingly professionalized since the 1970s, marked by the development of the National Council on Public History (NCPH) and an ever-increasing discussion about the philosophy, ethics, and practice of public history.

The National Council on Public History (NCPH) defines public history as “the many and diverse ways in which history is put to work in the world. In this sense, it is history that is applied to real-world issues. In fact, applied history was a term used synonymously and interchangeably with public history for a number of years. Although public history has gained ascendance in recent years as the preferred nomenclature especially in the academic world, applied history probably remains the more intuitive and self-defining term.” (NCPH website, accessed December 2015)

A previous definition from the NCPH website described public history as "where historians and their various publics collaborate in trying to make the past useful to the public… That is, public history is the conceptualization and practice of historical activities with one’s public audience foremost in mind. It generally takes place in settings beyond the traditional classroom. Its practitioners often see themselves as mediators on the one hand between the academic practice of history and non-academics and on the other between the various interests in society that seek to create historical understanding. Public history practitioners include museum professionals, government and business historians, historical consultants, archivists, teachers, cultural resource managers, curators, film and media producers, policy advisors, oral historians, professors and students with public history interests, and many others.”

Working in the field of public history is challenging but extremely rewarding. Public historians are expected to be good historians, proficient in historical research and well-versed in historical scholarship, but also to possess the skills and knowledge of how to present history to a diverse public audience. A growing scholarship on the practice of public history has emerged over the past several decades, providing best practices recommendations on how to accomplish our goals. This class will expose students to some classic as well as new scholarship in the field, explore issues in public history practice, and offer hands-on, practical experience through preparing a grant proposal and completing a “real-world” public history project. In addition, students will gain experience in professionalism by writing resumes, creating a LinkedIn page, and participating in a mock interview.

All students are encouraged to join our professional organization, the National Council for Public History, as a student member. Rates are inexpensive for students, and there are many benefits. For more information, please visit http://ncph.org/about/join-us/

This course meets the following Learning Outcomes for the UWG Graduate Program in History:

1: Conduct original historical research
   - Conduct original historical research through:
     o the class project

2: Formulate and defend a historical argument in Standard English
   - Formulate an argument and express that argument in Standard English through:
     o book review essays

3: To demonstrate knowledge of historiography and its changes over time
   - Demonstrate knowledge of the historiography of public history through:
     o book review essays

4: Demonstrate knowledge of the theory and practice of public history
   - Demonstrate knowledge of the theory and practice of public history through:
     o Final class project
     o Reflective project essay
     o Georgia Humanities grant proposal

This class will:
   - Provide field experience in public history
     o develop skills in public history practice including ▪ grant writing
       ▪ project planning and development
     o develop professional skills necessary for public history practice
       ▪ collaborative and teamwork skills
       ▪ public presentations
       ▪ critical thinking and writing
       ▪ engaging community partners
     o challenge students to negotiate challenging issues in public history practice

   - Provide opportunities for professional development in the history field
     o Identify the types of employment in the field of public history
     o Prepare a professional resume
     o Participate in discussions about work culture and expectations from seasoned, practicing professionals
Required Readings

Books:

Denson, Andrew, Monuments to Absence: Cherokee Removal and the Contest over Southern Memory. Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 2017.

Ferentinos, Susan, Interpreting LGBT History at Museums and Historic Sites. Rowman and Littlefield, 2014.

Forni, P. M., Choosing Civility. St Martin’s Griffin, 2002.

Miles, Tiya, Tales from the Haunted South: Dark Tourism and Memories of Slavery from the Civil War Era. University of North Carolina Press, 2015.

 Indicates books from you may select for the book reviews, described below under requirements.

History@Work

Students are also expected to read the National Council on Public History blog “History@Work” on a weekly basis. We will discuss articles on the blog in class each week. Each student will be assigned two weeks to discuss issues that appeared on the blog with the class. You can access the blog at http://ncph.org/history-at-work/

Course Requirements

Georgia Humanities grant proposal (25 points):

Each student will write a grant proposal for Georgia Humanities. Students will design a project, identify a potential sponsoring organization, and write the grant proposal, complete with humanities scholars and budget. Each grant must meet the guidelines required by Georgia Humanities grant program. Arden Williams, Senior Program Officer at Georgia Humanities, will come to class to talk about the grant program. For more information on GH and its grant program, visit www.georgiahumanities.org

While this exercise is designed as a “mock” grant proposal, if you envision a project that you would like to undertake or if you are involved with an agency or organization that would like you to develop a grant proposal, you are more than welcome to write a “real” proposal that you could submit to GH for funding.

All students will present their proposals to a review panel and will receive feedback from that panel. The review panel will include Arden Williams and your classmates/peers.

All students will revise their proposals for their final grade. Revised proposals are due on April 24.

Class project (25 points):

All graduate students will participate in a real-life public history project. This project will provide an opportunity to work and think as public historians, to research and write about history, to work collaboratively, and to share authority with the community and partnering organizations. The project sponsors will come to class at the beginning of the semester to present their needs. The class will then present the final project to those sponsors at the end of the semester.
Students will work as a team to complete this project. All students must meet the established schedule and team expectations for the project to be successful. The team will divide up the tasks and responsibilities and all members are expected to pull their weight to complete the project. Communication is key to success. Students are required to meet or communicate with team members outside of class. In addition, students are expected to provide a weekly update to Course Den by Sunday night at 8 p.m.

At the end of the semester, each student will write a minimum 1,000-word essay that
1. Describes what work you personally completed for the project,
2. Reflects on what you learned about public history through the project, and
3. Evaluates your performance as a team member.

Students will be evaluated individually for the class project. Project grades will be assessed based on:
1. my observations of your work throughout the semester (based on Course Den and other discussions in class)
2. your project essay
3. the quality of the work that you performed for the project
4. your final presentation of the project

Book responses (20 points)
Students will write reviews on four monographs, each worth 5 points. The reviews should be 1,000 words, double-spaced, 12-point font, standard margins, including page numbers. The reviews should include:
- the authors’ thesis,
- a discussion about how well s/he or they supported the thesis
- your assessment of the authors’ contributions to the field of public history.

For these essays, students will choose four books from the five books indicated on the book list with an asterisk. The review must be submitted on the day that we discuss the book. Please submit the assignment via the appropriate drop box on Course Den.

Professional Development Exercises: Resume, Linked-In Page, and Interview (15 points)
Students will complete three professional development exercises. Each will be worth five percent of the final grade.

First, students will write a resume geared towards employment in the field of public history. Each student will create a resume that is tailored to a particular aspect of public history that you choose (museum educator, curator, historical society director, archivist, historic preservationist, etc). On the designated class day, students will bring six copies of their completed, copy-edited resumes for a collaborative workshop to strengthen those resumes. Each student will revise his or her essay after the workshop. A final copy will be submitted for grading and another copy will be added to your Linked-in page.

Second, all students will develop a Linked-In page that meets the recommendations offered by Career Services and your instructor.

Third, all students will complete a mock interview with Career Services. Each student will identify a position for which they would like to apply and conduct an interview with Kristi Connor in Career Services for that position. Ms. Connor will evaluate and provide feedback on your interview.
Class participation and attendance (15 points):
Students are expected to come to class having done the reading and be prepared to discuss the topics on the class schedule.

Points in this category will be awarded based on the following three criteria:

1. Class attendance. Because this class only meets once a week and much of what I hope we learn will come through class discussions and guest speakers, excessive absences will lower your final course grade.

2. Class participation, including contributing to class discussions and raising issues or questions for discussion, including discussions related to the books

3. Participation in presentations by guest speakers, including asking questions to or responding to questions asked by our guest speakers

4. Leading a class discussion about a book (5 points)

5. Leading weekly discussions about the History@Work blog

Course Den

Please note that students are required to utilize Course Den on a regular basis for this class.

1. Course announcements will be posted on Course Den. It is your responsibility to be aware of these announcements.

2. Teams will post weekly updates on the class project by Sunday at 8 p.m.

3. Book reviews will be submitted to Course Den.

4. Students may be asked to participate in discussions related to the class on Course Den as requested by the instructor.

Additional Information

Common Language for all UWG Course Syllabi
Please review the link here for essential information:
http://www.westga.edu/assetsDept/vpaa/Common_Language_for_Course_Syllabi.pdf

Academic Integrity
All students are expected to turn in their own work. Adopting someone’s words or ideas as your own is a serious violation of academic honesty. If a student turns in any work that is plagiarized from another source (whether a book, article, on-line source, or another student in the class), that student will receive an automatic “F” as the final class grade. The History Department has adopted the American Historical Association’s statement on plagiarism. Please visit our website at http://www.westga.edu/~history/statementonplagiarism.pdf so that you are familiar with the definition of plagiarism.

Cell Phone Policy: If special circumstances require you to monitor your phone, take a call, or text during class, please let me know at the beginning of class and step outside of the room to use your phone. Otherwise, cell phones should be turned off and not visible during class.
Class Schedule

Readings listed for each class meeting are due on the class day referenced. Additional readings may be assigned. Written assignments are due at the beginning of class on the date listed in Course Den. This schedule is subject to change.

January 6:  Class introduction

January 15:  Martin Luther King Jr. Holiday, no class

January 22:  Public Humanities and Grantwriting
  Guest speaker: Arden Williams, Georgia Humanities
  Read:
  - Choosing Civility
  - NCPH Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct
  - Georgia Humanities website section on “Grantmaking,” which is available at www.georgiahumanities.org

January 29:  Using History and Sharing Authority
  Read:
  - Land of Lincoln

February 5:  History and the Public
  Read:
  - Presence of the Past

February 12:  Race and Public History
  Read: Slavery and Public History

February 19:  Historical Memory
  Read: Monuments to Absence: Cherokee Removal and the Contest over Southern Memory.
February 26:  Heritage Tourism
Read: Tales from the Haunted South

March 5:  Interpreting Difficult History
Read: Interpreting LGBT History at Museums and Historic Sites

March 12  International Public History
Read: Select articles to be announced

March 19:  No class, Spring Break

March 26  Commemoration
Read: A Misplaced Massacre
  * “Does the NPS have a culture problem?” at http://ncph.org/history-at-work/does-the-national-park-service-have-a-culture-problem/

April 2:  Humanities Council Grant Panel Review
All students will present their grants to a panel of classmates and GH staff.
Due:
- Complete copy of your Humanities Council grant proposal
- One-page executive summary of your proposal for the review panel (10 copies)

April 9:  Resumes, Professionalism, and Workplace Culture
Read:
- https://www.westga.edu/student-services/careerservices/assets-careerservices/docs/resume_evaluation_sample.pdf
- https://www.westga.edu/student-services/careerservices/assets-careerservices/docs/history_resume_sample.pdf

April 16:  Resume Workshop, Interview Preparation
Read:
- Review other job-seeking resources available at http://ncph.org/publications-resources/students/
Due:
- Your draft resume. Please bring six copies of your resume to class.

April 24:  Mock interviews
All students will schedule their mock interview this week. Please be sure to submit your resume and job description to Kristi Connor no later than Thursday, April 19 at 5 p.m.
Due:
- Revised GH grant. Please note that revisions are required, based on comments received from the instructor, Arden Williams, and your peers.
April 30:  Project Workday
Due:
  • Revised Resume

May 7:  Class project presentation
Due:
  • Class project
  • Written evaluation of your participation in the class project
  • Linked-In Page