In recent decades, many psychologists have characterized psychology as a “depopulated” field – one devoid of actual human beings. Accordingly, many have advocated taking an approach that focuses on life stories as a way to humanize psychology. This course will explore the life story approach and will do so by weaving psychological theory with students’ examinations of a chosen figure. As students work toward constructing a psychologically informed life story analysis, they will be aided by a structured task-schedule, in-class exercises, and readings selected to provide essential frameworks, concepts, and theories.

Course Objectives and Learning Outcomes
Students will:

1) Develop an understanding of life story analysis and its relevance to the field of psychology.
2) Develop an understanding of narration as a psychological process.
3) Engage in analytical writing that reflects an awareness of the historical, philosophical, and conceptual foundations of life story-focused psychology.
4) Cultivate an awareness of the uses of and distinctions between various forms of life story theories.
5) Engage in a research project focused on a life story analysis of a chosen figure.

Grading Information and Policy
There are a total of 100 points possible in the course. The research project is worth a total of 80 points and consists of 10 tasks (project pitch – 10 pts., contextual factors presentation – 5 pts., capsule view of figure – 10 pts., self-talk analysis – 5 pts., others’ accounts analysis – 5 pts., works analysis – 5 pts., psychological theory presentation – 10 pts., final presentation outline – 5 pts., research report – 10 pts., and the final presentation – 15 pts). Quizzes will be worth 10 points. In-class writings are worth 10 pts. These 100 points will be used to calculate a percentage grade according to the standard percentage point divisions:
Assignments and Requirements

Attendance. Formal attendance will be taken in this class and there is no way to learn the material, complete the project, or to get a good grade without regular attendance. Some course work will be completed in class and all assignments will only be fully explained in class.

Readings. You are expected to come to each class with a copy of the reading for the day, having read the materials listed on the same date as that lecture (see course schedule below). Each day’s class will cover material relevant to the assigned readings, so you will be more prepared to understand the material if you come to class having read the assignment.

Participation. You are expected to participate in in-class activities and exercises. This class will be highly experiential (i.e., non-lecture), so you should expect to come to class, come on time, come prepared, and actively engage in your learning.

Quizzes. There will be several quizzes throughout the course of the semester, which will be given at the beginning of class. You must be in class when the quiz is given to have the opportunity to take it (no make ups). The quizzes will focus on course readings.

In-class Writings. There will be several in-class writings throughout the course of the semester, which will be assigned at the beginning of class. You must be in class when the writing prompt is given to have the opportunity to write about it (no make ups). The in-class writings will bridge course readings and class exercises.

Research Project. You are expected to construct a research project focused on the life of a chosen figure. This will be the summative project for this course, and accordingly, will reflect your understanding of the concepts and issues addressed in throughout the semester. This proposal will be constructed in stages, and thus, will build upon your work from the semester. These are the tasks of the project broken into assignments:

1. Project Pitch – Your initial proposal of your research topic, which will provide a rationale and plan for completion.
2. Contextual Factors Presentation – A brief presentation to the class that examines the life of your chosen figure in their sociohistorical context.
3. Capsule View – A relatively succinct written overview of your chosen figure’s life that illuminates the importance of their story.
4. Self-talk Analysis – A relatively brief written analysis of the figure’s narration of self.
5. Other’s Accounts Analysis - A relatively brief written analysis of the way your figure is spoken about by others in their life.
6. Works Analysis - A relatively brief written analysis of the work (i.e., creations) of your chosen figure.
7. Psychological Analysis – A relatively succinct presentation to the class in which you deploy psychological theory in your analysis of your chosen figure.
8. Research Project Outline – A detailed outline that will map out your final project.
9. Research Report – A written report in which you introduce your subject, articulate your investigatory approach, present your findings, and discuss the implications of your findings. This report should be conceived as a written compliment to your final presentation.

10. Final Presentation – A relatively substantial presentation to the class in which you present your comprehensive analysis of your chosen figure. This presentation should reflect a thoughtful synthesis of the tasks you completed throughout the semester (i.e. should reflect your use of psychological theory, present the person in their sociohistorical context, etc.).

All formal written assignments (i.e., not in-class writings) should be in APA format, should be double spaced, and should be in a standard (i.e., Times New Roman) 12pt font.

Grading structure and point scale:
90-100 points 90% - 100% A
80 points - 89 points 80% - 89% B
70 points - 79 points 70% - 79% C
60 points - 69 points 60% - 69% D
< 60 points < 60% F

Late work policy:
All assignments are due (i.e., submitted on the course website, unless otherwise specified) by the beginning of the class period corresponding to the due date of the assignment (see the course schedule). Any work turned in after this time will be docked 10% for each day past the due date that it is not turned in.

Texts, Readings, Instructional Resources, and References
Students will need to purchase Bound for Glory, by Woody Guthrie (Plume, 1983), which can easily and inexpensively be obtained from most book sellers. All other readings will be available on CourseDen under the “contents” tab. The number associated with each text corresponds with the class schedule (see below). Readings should be completed before the date in which they are scheduled to be addressed.

Course and UWG Policies

Honor Code
At the University of West Georgia, we believe that academic and personal integrity are based upon honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. Students at West Georgia assume responsibility for upholding the honor code. West Georgia students pledge to refrain from engaging in acts that do not maintain academic and personal integrity. These include, but are not limited to, plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, aid of academic dishonesty, lying, bribery or threats, and stealing.

The University of West Georgia maintains and monitors a confidential Academic Dishonesty Tracking System. This database collects and reports patterns of repeated student violations across all the Colleges, the Ingram Library, and the School of Nursing. Each incidence of academic dishonesty is subject to review and consideration by the instructor, and is subject to a range of academic penalties including, but not limited to, failing the assignment and/or failing the course. Student conduct sanctions range from verbal warning to suspension or expulsion depending on the magnitude of the offense and/or number of offenses. The incident becomes part of the student’s conduct record at UWG.

Additionally, the student is responsible for safeguarding his/her computer account. The student’s account and network connection are for his/her individual use. A computer account is to be used only by the person to whom it has been issued. The student is responsible for all actions originating through his/her account or network connection. Students must not impersonate others or misrepresent or conceal their identities in electronic messages and actions. For more information on the University of West Georgia Honor Code, please see the Student Handbook.

Email Policy
University of West Georgia students are provided a MyUWG e-mail account. The University considers this account to be an official means of communication between the University and the student. The purpose of the official use of the student e-mail account is to provide an effective means of communicating important university related information to UWG students in a timely manner. It is the student’s responsibility to check his or her email.

Accessibility Services
Accessibility Services: Students with a documented disability may work with UWG Accessibility Services to receive essential services specific to their disability. All entitlements to accommodations are based on documentation and USG Board of Regents standards. If a student needs course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability or chronic illness, or if he/she needs to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, the student should notify his/her instructor in writing and provide a copy of his/her Student Accommodations Report (SAR), which is available only from Accessibility Services. Faculty cannot offer accommodations without timely receipt of the SAR; further, no retroactive accommodations will be given. For more information, please contact Accessibility Services.
Center for Academic Success: The Center for Academic Success provides services, programs, and opportunities to help all undergraduate students succeed academically. For more information, contact them: 678-839-6280 or cas@westga.edu

University Writing Center: The University Writing Center assists students with all areas of the writing process. For more information, contact them: 678-839-6513 or writing@westga.edu

Americans with Disabilities Act Statement:
If you are a student who is disabled as defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act and require assistance or support services, please seek assistance through the Office for Accessibility Services. UWG also provides Accessibility Statements for Technology that you may be required to use for this course.

For more information on the Americans with Disabilities Act, UWG Email, Credit Hour, and UWG Honor Code policies as well as information on Academic Tutoring, Student Services, and Technical Requirements, Privacy Policy, and Accessibility Statements, please see the Common Language for Syllabus document.

I strongly recommend that students make an electronic copy of everything submitted to me via the dropbox.

Center for Academic Success
The new Center for Academic Success (CAS) provides services, programs, and opportunities to help all undergraduate students succeed academically. The CAS offers free appointment-based peer tutoring in core courses, as well as supplemental instruction (SI)—which is peer-facilitated collaborative learning—in a variety of disciplines. Students seeking help with study skills and strategies can attend workshops though the Academic Success Workshop series, or work individually with either a staff or peer Academic Coach. Beginning Fall 2014, the CAS will also offer “Back on Track,” a voluntary academic recovery program designed for students who want to improve their grades and academic standing. The Center for Academic Success is located in UCC 200, and can be reached at 678-839-6280. Our email address is cas@westga.edu.

Smarthinking
Smarthinking offers online tutoring services and resources (including the Writing Center) for UWG students/instructors in all courses. A link to Smarthinking is available in CourseDen under Resources in the navigation bar.

Student Services
Here is a great resource of Student Services for all students at UWG, whether or not they are taking online courses. This link provides students with most of the information they need. If a student is experiencing distress and needs some help, check out UWG Cares.
